The page contains a table with data from a clinical trial. The table is titled "Baseline Demographics and Disease Characteristics" and includes columns for age, sex, body mass index, and other metrics. The data is presented as mean and standard deviation values. The page also includes a paragraph of text discussing the results of the trial, mentioning statistical significance and adverse events. There are references to scientific literature and discussions about the findings, including mentions of "AOC 1001", "MARINA", and "DM1". The text is dense with medical terminology and statistical data.